English Heritage is the Government's statutory adviser on the historic environment. Officially known as the Historic Buildings and Monuments Commission for England, English Heritage is an Executive Non-departmental Public Body sponsored by the Department for Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS). Their powers and responsibilities are set out in the National Heritage Act (1983) and today they report to Parliament through the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport.

English Heritage works in partnership with the central government departments, local authorities, voluntary bodies and the private sector to:

- Conserve and enhance the historic environment
- Broaden public access to the heritage
- Increase people's understanding of the past

OHS were contracted to work on a variety of commissions on behalf of English Heritage including Asbestos Management.

OHS carefully integrated into the English Heritage policy and practice taking into account the nature and age of the buildings.

The high standard of Reporting and Data Collation were very important in OHS securing this tender.
